

Abstract

Control system of an electronic instrument for metrological measurements, comprising an electronic local processing unit including a handling application of said instrument. The system includes a control application for 5 said handling application, which can be associated with said local processing unit, said control application being suitable for generating a univocal certification code for the application.

10